

I wish to register the strongest possible objection to use of cell phones on public airlines in flight. The thought of having boorish people yelling into their phones in such an enclosed environment is a hazard in its own right.